Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

Future Developments

For the latest information about developments related to Schedule B (Form 1116) and its instructions, such as legislation enacted after they were published, go to IRS.gov/Form1116.

What's New

Line 1 of Schedule B has been revised to instruct filers to enter the amounts from the appropriate columns of line 8 of the prior year Schedule B.

The "Caution" at the top of the Line 1 Reconciliation Worksheet at the end of these instructions has been updated to clarify that the worksheet should now only be used in cases where you're amending your 2021 foreign tax credit within the special 10-year limitation period described in section 6511(d)(3) (or section 6511(c) if the period is extended by agreement).

General Instructions

Purpose of Schedule

Schedule B (Form 1116) is used to reconcile your prior year foreign tax carryover with your current year foreign tax carryover. Taxpayers are therefore reporting running balances of their foreign tax carryovers showing all activity since the filing of their prior year income tax return.

Lines 1 through 3. On these lines, you figure your adjusted foreign tax carryover from the prior tax year which is available for credit in the current tax year. The total amount on line 3, column (xiv), is included on Form 1116, Part III, line 10.

Line 4. If you have a current year excess limitation (defined later), some or all of the line 3 adjusted foreign tax carryover amount will be utilized in the current tax year. This activity is shown on line 4 of Schedule B.

Lines 5 through 8. If you have current year excess foreign taxes (defined later), none of the line 3 adjusted foreign tax carryover amount will be utilized in the current tax year. If you have any remaining carryover from the 10th preceding tax year, this carryover amount will expire unused. This activity is shown on line 5 of Schedule B. Furthermore, you will generate a foreign tax carryover in the current tax year which can be carried back to the prior tax year and/or carried forward to future tax years (see the line 10 instructions in the Instructions for Form 1116 for details). This activity is shown on lines 6 through 8 of Schedule B.

Who Must File

With respect to each separate category of income, if you're filing Form 1116 that has a foreign tax carryover in the prior tax year, the current tax year, or both, you must file Schedule B for that separate category of income.

Definitions

Excess limitation. If your foreign tax credit limitation (Form 1116, Part III, line 23) exceeds your current year foreign taxes available for credit (the sum of Form 1116, Part III, lines 9, 12, and 13), you have an excess limitation.

Excess foreign taxes. If your current year foreign taxes available for credit (the sum of Form 1116, Part III, lines 9, 12, and 13) exceed your foreign tax credit limitation (Form 1116, Part III, line 23), you have excess foreign taxes.

Specific Instructions

Important: All information reported on Schedule B must be in English. All amounts must be stated in U.S. dollars.

Checkboxes at top of page 1. Use a separate Schedule B for each applicable category of income and check the corresponding box. Check only one box for each completed Schedule B.

See Categories of Income in the Instructions for Form 1116 for additional information regarding separate categories. For country codes on lines (h) and (i), see IRS.gov/CountryCodes for the code to use.

Note. Don't complete Schedule B for section 951A category income because the carryover provisions of section 904(c) don't apply to foreign taxes assigned to section 951A category income.

Line 1. Foreign tax carryover from the prior tax year. Enter on line 1 the amounts from the appropriate columns of line 8 of the prior year Schedule B. For example, enter on line 1, column (i) of the current year Schedule B the amount from line 8, column (ii) of the prior year Schedule B. Enter on line 1, column (ii) of the current year Schedule B the amount from line 8, column (iii) of the prior year Schedule B. Enter on line 1, column (iii) of the current year Schedule B the amount from line 8, column (iv) of the prior year Schedule B.

Line 2. Adjustments to line 1. Report on lines 2a, 2b, 2c, 2d, etc., any adjustments resulting from events that occurred between the filing of your prior year tax return and the filing of your current year tax return.

Line 2a. Carryback adjustment. Enter on line 2a, column (xii), the difference between any estimated carryback amount you may have used on your prior year carryover schedule (that is, any estimated carryback amount that you entered on line 7, column (xiii), of the prior year Schedule B) and the actual carryback amount.

Example. For 2022, Sam has excess foreign taxes of $100 entered on Schedule B, line 6, column (xiii). Sam enters $20 on line 7 as the estimated amount of line 6 to be carried back to 2021. He enters $80 on line 8 as the carryover amount for following years. The actual carryback amount to 2021 is later determined to be $15. In 2023, Sam enters $80 on line 1, column (xii), as the carryover from 2022, corresponding to the amount entered on line 8, column (xiii), of Schedule B filed for the 2022 tax year. Because the estimated carryback amount of $20 from 2022 to 2021 (entered on line 7 of Schedule B filed for 2022) exceeds the actual carryback of $15, Sam will enter the $5 excess ($20 – $15) on line 2a of his 2023 Schedule B as a positive number. Assuming no other adjustments are needed, the total carryover amount from 2022 entered on line 3, column (xii), of Sam's 2023 Schedule B will be $85 ($80 + $5).

Line 2b. Adjustments for section 905(c) redeterminations.

Enter on line 2b any adjustments needed for section 905(c) redeterminations. See Foreign Tax Redeterminations in the Instructions for Form 1116 for additional information.

Lines 2c, 2d, 2e, etc. Include on these additional lines the following types of adjustments needed to reflect:

- Domestic audit adjustments, and
- Any other adjustments needed to properly reflect the total carryover amount from the prior tax year that is available for credit in the current tax year.

Note. Be sure to enter a brief description of each applicable adjustment item immediately after the lower case letter in the first column of the schedule.

Line 3. Adjusted foreign tax carryover from prior tax year. Combine lines 1 and 2. The total amount on line 3, column (xiv), is the adjusted carryover amount from the prior tax year. It is included on Form 1116, Part III, line 10 (and, if filing an amended return, combined with carrybacks into the current tax year) to determine the total amount of foreign taxes that are available for credit in the current tax year.

Line 4. Foreign tax carryover used in current tax year. With respect to a given separate limitation, line 4 is completed only if you have a current year excess limitation (defined earlier).

Enter in each column the foreign tax carryover utilized in the current tax year. Starting with column (i), the amount to be entered on line 4 of a given column will be the amount on line 3 of that column, but only to the extent that it doesn't exceed:

- The amount of the current year excess limitation (defined earlier), less
- The sum of all amounts entered in all previous columns of line 4.

Example. For the current tax year, Bob has an excess limitation of $250. The amount on line 3, column (i), is $80. The amount on line 3, column (ii), is $60. The amount on line 3, column (iii), is $130. The amount on line 3 of all subsequent columns is irrelevant for purposes of this example. Bob enters $80 on line 4, column (i); $60 on line 4, column (ii); $110 on line 4, column (iii); the $250 subtotal on line 4, column (vii); the $250 subtotal on line 4, column (viii); and the $250 total on line 4, column (xiv).

The line 4, column (xiv), total can't exceed the amount of the current year excess limitation.

Line 5. Foreign tax carryover expired unused in current tax year. Line 5 is completed only with respect to the 10th preceding tax year (and the "Subtotal" and "Totals" columns). For the 10th preceding tax year (column (i)), combine lines 3 and 4 and enter the result on line 5, column (i).

Line 6. Foreign tax carryover generated in current tax year. With respect to a given separate limitation, line 6 is completed only if you have current year excess foreign taxes (defined under Definitions, earlier). Enter in column (xiii) (the current tax year column) the amount of your unused foreign tax for the current tax year (that is, the amount by which the sum of Form 1116, Part III, lines 9, 12, and 13, exceeds the amount on Form 1116, Part III, line 23). Also enter the same amount in the "Totals" column (column (xiv)).

Line 7. Actual or estimated amount of line 6 to be carried back to the prior tax year. Enter the amount of line 6 carried back to the first preceding tax year. If, at the time you file your current year income tax return, the actual amount isn't available, an estimated or tentative amount may be entered on line 7. If an estimated amount is entered on line 7 and this amount differs from the actual carryback amount, the difference will be entered on line 2a of your subsequent year Schedule B.

Note. In order to carry back amounts to the first preceding tax year, that first preceding tax year must be an excess limitation year (as defined earlier under Definitions).

Note. When this line 7 carryback amount is subtracted from line 6, the difference is the amount of the foreign tax carryover generated in the current tax year which will be carried forward to your subsequent tax year.

Line 1 Reconciliation Worksheet

If you're amending your 2021 foreign tax credit within the special 10-year limitation period described in section 6511(d)(3) (or section 6511(c) if the period is extended by agreement), use the worksheet at the end of the instructions to figure the amounts to be entered on line 1 of your Schedule B for 2021.

Lines 2 through 5. Use the instructions for lines 4 through 7 of Schedule B earlier to complete lines 2 through 5, respectively, of the Line 1 Reconciliation Worksheet.
